

Policy:	Preventing Extremism and Radicalisation Policy
Date of approval:	February 2021
Effective date:	February 2021
Next review date:	September 2021

1. Purpose

Cambridge College of Management & Sciences (CCMS) is committed to providing a secure environment for all of our students, staff and our wider community. This is currently threatened by attempts to exploit vulnerable people, including children, young people and vulnerable adults to involve them in terrorism or activity in support of terrorism. The purpose of this Policy is to set out the means by which the College endeavours to prevent such exploitation.

2. Policy Statement

CCMS considers that exploitation and radicalisation constitute a form of abuse and as such will be viewed as safeguarding concerns. As set out in its Safeguarding Policy, the College is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children, young people and vulnerable adults engaged in its activities by ensuring that there are appropriate arrangements in place to enable it to discharge its duty to provide a safe and secure environment and to deal with issues concerned with suspected or reported abuse of children and vulnerable adults.

As Prevent acknowledges, the current threat from terrorism in the United Kingdom is underpinned by the exploitation of vulnerable people in order to involve them in terrorism or in activity in support of extremism and terrorism. Further information on vulnerability to radicalisation and extremist views is given in the Appendix below. The College therefore considers it essential that students and staff see CCMS as a safe place where students can discuss and explore controversial issues safely and in an unbiased way and where staff encourage and facilitate this, but where failure to challenge extreme views or behaviour and to treat them as normal is not accepted. The College recognises that extremism and exposure to extremist materials and influences can lead to poor outcomes for students and that failure to challenge extremist views would represent a failure to protect our students and may put vulnerable people at greater risk of future manipulation and exploitation.

Consequently, and as part of their wider safeguarding responsibilities, College staff will be alert to:

- disclosures by students of their exposure to the extremist actions, views or materials;

- graffiti, symbols, writing or art work promoting extremist messages or images;
- students accessing extremist material online, including through social networking sites;
- reports of changes in behaviour or actions and requests for assistance;
- students voicing opinions drawn from extremist ideologies and narratives;
- use of extremist or 'hate' terms to exclude others or incite violence;
- intolerance of difference, whether secular or religious or, in line with our equalities policy, views based on, but not exclusive to, gender, disability, homophobia, race, colour or culture; and
- attempts to impose extremist views or practices on others

The College will promote the values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, mutual respect and tolerance for those with different faiths and beliefs. It will teach and encourage students to respect one another and to respect and tolerate difference, especially when dealing with others of a different faith or no faith. The College recognises its responsibility to keep students safe and prepare them for life in modern multi-cultural Britain and globally.

4. Policy Objectives

As set out in its Safeguarding Policy, the College seeks to prevent vulnerable individuals (as defined under the Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act 2006 as amended by the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012) becoming the victims of abuse, including exploitation and radicalisation in order to involve them in terrorism or in activity in support of extremism and terrorism, in a number of ways including:

- providing help to staff and students to recognise their responsibilities (through guidance, support and training);
- ensuring processes are in place to check the suitability of staff and students working directly with vulnerable adults and children;
- sustaining an open culture which respects all individuals' rights, discourages bullying and discrimination of all kinds and, while recognising the right to freedom of speech, does not accept the expression of violent extremist views;□

- identifying a member of the Board of Governors and a member of the Senior Management Team who have overall responsibility for vulnerable adult matters and two other staff as Designated Persons, who will receive training in this field and act as a source of advice and support to other College staff especially tutors and front-of-house staff; and□
- informing vulnerable adults of their rights to be free from harm and encouraging them to talk to College staff if they have any concerns□

This Policy extends the principles of the Safeguarding Policy to those who are vulnerable to being drawn into extremist or terrorist activity whether or not they are deemed as “vulnerable” under the Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act.

5. Scope of Policy

This Policy applies to all staff (including agency staff and governors), academic and business support staff employed by the College, temporary staff and volunteers. All have a legal responsibility to take seriously any vulnerable adult concerns that come to their attention and follow the procedures given.

Subcontractors and regular visitors to the College must be informed of this Policy and deal with any concerns reported to them by contacting a Designated Person with responsibility for Vulnerable Adult Protection in College.

Students who have concerns about other students or the behaviour of staff towards them can use this Policy as the framework under which those concerns should be addressed.

It is not the College's responsibility to investigate abuse. Nevertheless, it has a duty to act if there is a cause for concern and to notify the appropriate agencies so that they can investigate and take any necessary action.

6. Responsibility Structure

The College has identified an organisation structure for safeguarding vulnerable adults, with key staff having designated safeguarding responsibilities. However, all communication in this regard must be directed to safety@ccms.co.uk or 0121 3406 6399.

In those areas where staff and students work with vulnerable adults as part of their roles, responsibility for ensuring safeguarding arrangements are in place and are adhered to rests with the manager of the area concerned.

All staff and students are required to take a shared responsibility for the protection and safety of any vulnerable adults. They must be aware of and abide by the College's Policies and Codes of Good Practice.

The Head of HR is responsible for ensuring that the College operates safe recruitment procedures and that appropriate checks are carried out on all new staff and volunteers.

Where an allegation of extremist or inappropriate behaviour is made against a member of staff and relates to their actions as a member of the College, in addition to actions set out above, Human Resources will advise and guide the line manager of the member of staff against whom allegations have been made in relation to employment issues.

Where an allegation of abuse or inappropriate behaviour is made against a student and relates to their actions as a member of the College, in addition to actions set out above, the Director of Studies will advise on the disciplinary procedure.

7. Practical Implementation

As an aspect of safeguarding, the practical implementation of measures to prevent the exploitation of vulnerable people, including children, young people and vulnerable adults to involve them in terrorism or activity in support of terrorism, is set out in this policy.

8. Review and Monitoring Of Policy

The Head of Quality Assurance will review and monitor the policy and procedures on an annual basis and will recommend and implement approved changes where necessary through the College Risk Management Committee. Should a revised version of the policy be necessary before its normal term of review has expired, it will be submitted to the Governing Body as required to ensure that any identified deficiencies or weaknesses are dealt with without delay.

Appendix

Vulnerability to Radicalisation

1. Radicalisation refers to the process by which a person comes to support terrorism and forms of extremism leading to terrorism.
2. Extremism is defined by the Government in its Prevent Strategy as:

Vocal or active opposition to fundamental British values, including democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty and mutual respect and tolerance of different faiths and beliefs, and includes calls for the death of members of the armed forces, whether in this country or overseas.

3. Extremism is defined by the Crown Prosecution Service as:

The demonstration of unacceptable behaviour by using any means or medium to express views which:

- encourage, justify or glorify terrorist violence in furtherance of particular beliefs;
- seek to provoke others to terrorist acts;
- encourage other serious criminal activity or seek to provoke others to serious criminal acts; or
- foster hatred which might lead to inter-community violence in the UK.

3. Staff should be aware that there is no such thing as a “typical extremist”: those who become involved in extremist actions come from a range of backgrounds and experiences. Most individuals, even those who hold radical views, do not become involved in violent extremist activity.

4. Students may become susceptible to radicalisation through a range of social, personal and environmental factors - it is known that violent extremists exploit vulnerabilities in individuals to alienate students from their families and communities.

5. In considering individuals who may be vulnerable to radicalisation, any concerns may not relate only to those who are defined as “vulnerable” under the Safeguarding Vulnerable Groups Act 2006 (as amended by the Protection of Freedoms Act 2012). Indicators of vulnerability in the context of radicalisation include:

- identity crisis – the student is distanced from their cultural / religious heritage and experiences discomfort about their place in society;
- personal crisis – the student may be experiencing family tensions; a sense of isolation; and low self-esteem; they may have dissociated from their existing friendship group and become involved with a new and different group of friends; they may be searching for answers to questions about identity, faith and belonging;
- personal circumstances – migration; local community tensions; and events affecting the student’s country or region of origin may contribute to a sense of grievance that is triggered by personal experience of racism or discrimination or aspects of Government policy;
- unmet aspirations – the student may have perceptions of injustice; a feeling of failure; rejection of civic life;
- experiences of criminality – which may include involvement with criminal groups, imprisonment, and poor resettlement or reintegration; and
- special educational need – students may experience difficulties with social interaction, empathy with others, understanding the consequences of their actions and awareness of the motivations of others.

6. This list is not, however, exhaustive, nor does it mean that those experiencing the above are necessarily at risk of radicalisation for the purposes of violent extremism.

7. More critical risk factors could include:

- contact with extremist recruiters;
- accessing violent extremist websites, especially those with a social networking element;
- possessing or accessing violent extremist literature;

- using extremist narratives and a global ideology to explain personal disadvantage;
- justifying the use of violence to solve societal issues;
- joining or seeking to join extremist organisations;
- displaying significant changes in appearance and / or behaviour; or
- experiencing a high level of social isolation resulting in issues of identity crisis and / or personal crisis.
